

PRESS RELEASE December 21st, 2012

Stable premium for Pensioenfonds Caribisch Nederland

The board of Pensioenfonds Caribisch Nederland has, for the time being, fixed the pension premiums for 2013 at the same level as in 2012. This means that the premium in 2013 will also be 26.1% of the pension base. The pension base equals the fixed salary, increased by the pensionable allowances minus the state pension offset. The state pension offset is the part of the income on which employees do not accrue pension rights as they will receive the AOW state pension. In 2013, the employees will pay a premium of 8.7% of the pension base, just as in 2012. Employers will pay a premium of 17.4%. The board announces that it may be possible that a change in the premium level will still be implemented in 2013. This possible change is related to the completion of the participant administration. When this has been completed, the board will have a full insight into the financial position and the cost-covering premium, which may still lead to a change in the premium level.
